Soviet Frontiers Will Never Be Opened Up for Inspection by Security Council; Gromkyo

Russian's Speech on Eve of Conference Held as Significant

Lake Success, N. Y., March 6—(AP)—Pessimistic Security Council delegates, groping for a solution to global control of atomic energy, pondered today a Russian assertion that Soviet frontiers never would be thrown open to unlimited international inspection nor Soviet factories allowed to operate under United Nations control.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet deputy foreign minister, made these points clear in a major policy speech, devoted principally to an outspoken attack on the American control plan.

Gromyko said the United States proposals, already accepted by all members of the 12-nation atomic energy commission except Russia and Poland, were contrary to the basic economic and national interests of other nations and "directed against the independence of other states."

The Russian delegate insisted that he was in favor of strict and effective inernational control, but not on the broad terms laid down by the United States. While repeatedly assailing the American provisions in a 75-minute speech, Gromyko did not state how far his country was willing to go toward "strict" control.

The United States wants an atomic development authority with full powers of inspection and control of atomic matters everywhere.

Speech Highly Significant

Coming almost on the eve of the Moscow conference, the speech was viewed as specially significant.

"Unlimited control would mean an unlimited extension of the control and controlling organs in the economic life of the countries on whose territory this control will be carried out, and interference in their internal affairs," Gromyko said. He added:

"Strict regulation of powers and duties of a control organ should exclude the unlimited access for inspection purposes to all equipment and operations and should also exclude granting to inspection the right to shut down plants, to interfere with normal mining and milling operations and granting it the right of giving so-called licenses."

Gromyko also:

1—Charged the United States was attempting "to secure for itself world monopoly in the field of atomic energy" through its plan for unlimited control.

2—Again demanded that the manufacture of atom bombs be prohibited as a first step toward any control system. Terming the bomb a weapon of aggression, he declared American failure to stop production could only be explained by "the desire of one country to impose its will on other countries."

3—Said flatly that there could be no agreement on the veto so long as the United States insisted on banning its use in punishing atomic violators. "The veto was established not on the initiative of the Soviet Union but on the

Marshall in Paris Enroute to Moscow

Paris, March 6—(AP)—Secretary of State Marshall arrived here today enroute to Moscow while another plane bearing John Foster Dulles and other advisers for the foreign ministers' conference landed in Berlin.

Marshall planned to continue to Berlin tomorrow. French Foreign Secretary Georges Bidault, also enroute to Moscow, was in Berlin today, while British Secretary Ernest Bevin spent a few hours in Warsaw.

A plane bearing 11 American news correspondents also reached Berlin.

Marshall flew from Washington by way of Bermuda and the Azores and reached Orly airfield at 12:40 p. m. (5:40 a. m., CST.)

United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery greeted the secretary and took him to luncheon at the ambassador's residence.

Secretary Marshall was to be the dinner guest of President Vincent Auriol tonight, and planned to confer with Premier Paul Ramadier before he continues to Berlin tomorrow for another stopover and a conference with United States occupation authorities in Germany.

Truman Calls for Reduced Barriers in World Trading

Waco, Tex., March 6—(AP)—President Truman, calling for a reduction of world trade barriers, declared today the United States "can lead the nations to economic peace or we can plunge them into economic war."

The president, enroute home from a three-day good-will visit to Mexico, stopped here to receive an honorary degree of doctor of laws from Baylor university. In an acceptance speech devoted entirely to the need for freer world trade, he:

1—Reaffirmed his faith in the reciprocal trade act which has been under attack by some Republicans in congress.

2—Struck out at those who would return to high tariffs and "economic isolation."

3—Welcomed continuation of bipartisan support for a foreign policy which calls for cooperation in the economic as well as the political field.

4—Asserted that the alternative to "regimentation" of international commerce is the world trade charter to be considered by 18 nations at Geneva next month. The proposed international trade organization, he said, would apply to commercial relationships "the same principle of fair dealing that the United Nations is applying to political affairs."

No Mention of Greece

(Truman made no reference in his remarks to Greece's appeal, with support from Britain, for American economic aid. Last Tuesday, Secretary of State Marshall termed the threatened collapse of the Greek economy a matter of "primary importance" to the United States. He said decisive action proposed would be announced by the president).

"The negotiations at Geneva must not fail," he declared.

He termed the United States today "the giant of the economic world," and added:

"Whether we like it or not, the future pattern of economic relations depends upon us. The world is waiting and watching to see what we shall do. The choice is ours. We can lead the nations to economic peace or we can plunge them into economic war.

"There must be no question as to our course. We must not go through the 'thirties again."

Is "Settled" Policy

He said reduction of trade barriers is a "settled policy" of this government, one of the "cornerstones of our plans for peace," and "a policy from which we cannot—and must not—turn aside."

"To those among us—and there are still a few—who would seek to undermine this policy for partisan advantage and go back to the period of high tariffs and economic isolation," he continued, "I can say only this:

"Take care! Times have changed. Our position in the world has changed. The temper of the people has changed. The slogans

Red 'Interference' in Hungary Held to be "Unjustifiable"

U. S. State Department's Sharp Note Delivered to Three Countries

Washington, March 6—(AP)—The United States today charged Soviet Russia with causing a political crisis by an "unjustified interference in Hungarian internal affairs."

A sharp note, delivered to the Russian, British and Hungarian governments, and to the Soviet military commander in Budapest, said that the Soviet high command by direct intervention has brought political difficulties in Hungary to a crisis.

An official summary of the note handed Moscow as Secretary of State Marshall traveled toward the Soviet capital, said this government deems "unwarranted" the charges filed against parliamentary deputy Bela Kovacs, who was arrested last week by Russian soldiers.

Kovacs until recently was secretary general of the Smallholders party, the moderate majority group in the Hungarian parliament, which the Communists and other parties have tried to oust.

Diplomatic authorities said the note was sent to Moscow by Marshall shortly before his departure yesterday for the big four foreign ministers conference opening there Monday. Copies went to Great Britain and the three-powed allied control council at Budapest.

U. S. Concern Reflected

The protest reflected American concern over bolstering Hungary, like Greece, against Soviet domination.

For weeks the Hungarian communist and other parties have sought to oust the moderate Smallholders party majority in parliament.

The most recent incident was the arrest of Kovacs, anti-communist member of parliament, by Russian soldiers.

Kovac's arrest was reported by the official Hungarian news agency to have been ordered by Lt. Gen. V. P. Sviridov, Russian occupation commander and chairman of the control council, on charges that he aided in the formation of underground terror groups and had organized espionage against the Russian army.

American concern over Russian-supported efforts to upset the regime was evidenced last month by the extension of a second $15,000,000 credit to Budapest to buy surplus American war material.

Great Britain Involved

The State department held out hopes then of further aid for Hun-

Mt. Etna Belches Lava Again Today

Rome, March 6—(AP)—Dispatches from Sicily reported today that Mt. Etna, which subsided earlier this week following an eight-day eruption, started belching lava against last night after three heavy internal explosions that opened new craters.

Lava streams were said to be flowing down the side of the volcano at a rate of about 600 feet an hour.

The lava was reported moving in the direction of Randazzo, northwest of the mountain. It was said to be spewing forth in a highly fluid condition, threatening a rapid spread.

Advices to Rome newspapers said the new eruption was accompanied by dense clouds of smoke which made observation difficult. The craters from which the lava was flowing, however, appeared to be at an altitude of about 3,000 to 6,000 feet respectively. Mt. Etna is over 10,000 feet high.

Four Craters Active

A dispatch to the Rome newspaper Il Momento said four craters were active again.

This report described the new "incandescent flow" as "proceeding without deviation and with increasing impetuosity and terrifying aspect" toward Randazzo, a town of approximately 11,000.

A motorized rescue column was formed in Catania, south of Etna, to send first aid to Randazzo if needed, Il Momento said, adding that Passo Pisciaro, a small village which narrowly escaped destruction in last week's eruption, was again in danger today.

Today's Acts, Talks in Nation's Capital Summarized by AP

Activities on Capitol Hill Briefed by Writers for Telegraph Readers

Washington, March 6—(AP)—Chairman Paul M. Herzog of the National Labor Relations Board told congress today he thought it would bring on strikes, rather than reducing their number, if it enacts most of the new labor laws suggested to it.

Cutting down on industrial strife is the declared aim of the proposed changes in labor laws on which house and senate labor committees have been holding hearings for weeks.

Herzog testified before the senate group.

The house committee heard Herman W. Steinkraus of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce ask revision of the Wagner Labor Relations Act so that employers won't be worried with "overnight" changes of NLRB policy.

While the labor debate went on, other committees were busy with many subjects:

Secretary of War Patterson, testifying before the house commerce committee, urged that congress create a national science foundation to direct basic research. The committee is studying differing bills which would do this:

James H. Marshall of the agriculture department's sugar branch told the house banking committee that sugar rationing and price control should be continued another year if "run away" prices are to be avoided. This committee handles price control legislation.

Newsprint Considered

The senate banking committee, inquiring into the shortage of newsprint, received a report from Charles F. Brannan, assistant secretary of agriculture, that prospects are "highly favorable for early establishment of one or more pulp and paper enterprises in Alaska."

Steinkraus is chairman of the Chamber's labor relations committee.

He said "vast areas" of the Wagner Act have been left to interpretation by the NLRB and because of "shifts in the board's policies, the employer has never known when a long-established administrative ruling would suddenly be changed X X X."

CIO President Philip Murray, in a statement last night asking the senate to reject a house approved bill to ban portal-pay suits, called the measure "vicious class legislation," and said it would cause "disastrous weakening" of the wage-hour law.

OPA In Conference

The fate of OPA now is up to a senate-house conference committee, yet to be named. The committee will reconcile differences of the two branches over a bill providing for OPA funds.

The senate, disregarding a plea from Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, OPA head, approved a measure yesterday to allow OPA $17,000,000 to wind up its affairs by June 30. Previously the house made a much deeper slash in OPA appropriation—so deep in fact that OPA officials said it meant immediate finish for the agency. Fleming protested the funds allowed by the senate would permit OPA to operate only until April 30.

GOP Will "Right Wrong", Rename Big Boulder Dam

Washington, March 6—(AP)—House Republicans get their chance to set up a monument to the most recent GOP president—Herbert Hoover—and at the same time "right a great wrong."

After 14 years, they were ready to designate mammoth Boulder dam on the Colorado river Hoover dam once more.

Senate approval and President Truman's signature still will be required.

Okayed only Tuesday by the house public lands committee, the name-changing resolution won a quick place on the chamber's calendar for a vote today.

GOP Waits Since 1933

To many Republican members the action brought an opportunity they have been waiting for since 1933.

That was the year Harold L. Ickes, President Roosevelt's secretary of the interior, discarded the Hoover label and announced that thereafter the dam would be given its "original and proper" name, Boulder dam.

Witnesses before the public lands group noted that congress never had got around to naming the dam formally. Since its conception, the title has depended upon the wishes of the current secretary of the interior.

During congressional debates on the Boulder Canyon Project act in the 1920's, the dam generally was referred to as Boulder or Boulder Canyon dam.

Hoover's Work Important

As secretary of commerce during that period, Herbert Hoover had been instrumental in putting through the Colorado river compact which cleared the way for the dam's construction.

Hoover entered the White House in 1929 and the next year his secretary of the interior, Ray Lyman Wilbur, announced that the structure would bear the president's name.

Rep. Jack Z. Anderson (R-Calif), sponsor of the name-changing resolution, told the house committee the project was referred to as Hoover dam in five appropriation bills. That, he contended, tended to give legality to the title.

"Thrill" Slayer Not Eligible For Parole

Chicago, March 6—(AP)—Nathan Leopold, serving a life sentence and a 99 year sentence in Stateville prison for the kidnap-slaying of young Bobby Franks in 1924, will not be eligible for parole for at least 10 years, Illinois parole officials have advised State's Attorney Willam J. Tuohy.

Tuohy said he sought the parole board's opinion in view of reports that Leopold would seek parole on the ground that he submitted to a malaria control experiment in prison during the war. Parole officials said some convicts in the tests would be given preferred parole consideration or posible executive clemency.

However, they said Leopold, convicted with the late Richard Loeb in the "thrill slaying" of the 14-year-old Franks boy, must serve a minimum of 33 years of the 99 year kidnaping sentence before his application for parole can be considered.

Elderly Spinster Achieves Almost Complete Privacy in Mid-New York

New York, March 6—(AP)—Miss Mary B. Powers, elderly resident of the Hotel Seymour, has achieved privacy in mid-Manhattan rivaling that of Ida Walsh Wood, Civil War belle who died in the Herald Square hotel in 1932 after a half-century of seclusion.

Miss Powers' name figured in a court action this week at Scranton, Pa. The Glen Alden Coal Company disclosed that $25,000 in dividend checks sent Miss Powers during the past eight years had gone uncashed, and the state of Pennsylvania asked the court to place the money in escrow for possible escheat to the state.

The checks were addressed to "Mary B. Powers, executrix of the Caroline Powers Estate."

Ralph P. Lohak, manager of the Hotel Seymour, said Miss Powers had not left her suite in the four years he had been manager. He, a doctor, a waiter and agents of the Fifth Avenue Bank of New York are the only persons she admits to the suite, Lohak said.

As for the bank's knowledge of the story of Miss Powers' seclusion, Edward Streeter, a vice president, told a reporter:

"We don't mean to appear stuffy, but there is only one thing we can say and that is that we cannot possibly give any information."

Lohak said he collects the rent quarterly, the doctor sees Miss Powers once a year, and once a day a waiter brings food and is tipped liberally. She does her own washing and dusting.

Miss Powers has lived at the hotel at least 15 years.

County Funds Show $135,880.09 Balance, Supervisors Learn

Washburns Named Again as County Infirmary Superintendents

Reports submitted to the county board of supervisors at the quarterly meeting yesterday afternoon in the courthouse from the office of County Treasurer Kenneth Abbott revealed a total balance of $135,880.09 in the county funds as of March 1.

The county general fund showed a balance of $58,912.43, while the Tuberculosis sanitarium fund had a balance of $29,130.46. A balance of $27,196.39 in motor fuel tax funds was reported.

Others included: County highway fund, $15,599.32; township secondary roads fund, $4,891.71, and 15-D road fund, $149.78.

Before adjoining sine dine at 4 p. m. yesterday afternoon, the board also reengaged Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Washburn as superintendent and matron, respectively, at the Lee county Infirmary for another year, effective March 31.

Supervisors Justin Becker, May township, and Henry W. Gehant, Brooklyn township, retiring members of the board, spoke briefly at the afternoon session yesterday, thanking board members and county officials for their cooperation during their period of service on the board.

Gehant is not a candidate for re-election this year because of the press of other affairs. Becker recently moved from May township to Amboy.

Georgia Governor Row Opens in State Court

Atlanta, March 6—(AP)—Oral arguments opened in Georgia's Supreme court today on the rival claims of Herman Talmadge and M. E. Thompson to the governorship. A decision is expected within 10 days.

Both claimants have agreed to abide by the decision, which will be unprecedented in the 101 years of the court's existence.

Opening the argument in Talmadge's behalf, Attorney B. D. Murphy said the legislature had stepped in as rightful representatives of the people when it elected Talmadge governor Jan. 15 to serve the term to which his father, Eugene, was elected. The elder Talmadge died three weeks before his scheduled inauguration.

Lieut. Gov. Thompson, who claims he succeeded to the governorship when former Governor Ellis Arnall resigned, listened attentively as the arguments started. Talmadge was not in the courtroom. The hearing will be concluded this afternoon.

Reported Dead the Third Time Coroner Wary

St. Louis, March 6—(AP)—Coroner Thomas F. Callanan said today he was insisting on more positive identification that 66-year-old waiter and former cook who died in City hospital recently actually was John P. Miller.

The reason for his insistence, the coroner said, was that Miller twice previously had been declared dead and even "buried" once in the family lot.

The story, as Callanan has gathered it:

Miller was declared legally dead in 1935 after he had been missing for seven years, but he showed up again.

Turned Up Alive

Then, on Oct. 14, 1941 a man died in the City hospital and was identified by Mrs. Evelyn Schmidt as her brother, John P. Miller, but six weeks after the body was buried, Miller turned up very much alive.

Just who had been buried was never determined.

This time Mrs. Schmidt believes her identification is correct. The man gave her name as that of his sister when he was admitted to the hospital, she said.

But Callanan is wondering and said he would look into the matter further.

Piracy Charge is Hurled After Dutch Seize U. S. Vessel

Batavia, Java, March 6—(AP)—A ship captain and a lawyer from the United States jointly accused the Netherlands navy today of committing an "act of piracy" in seizure of the U. S. liberty ship Martin Behrman with her cargo of commodities from republican Java.

The two were Capt. Rudy Grey, master of the Martin Behrman, and James W. Ryan, attorney for the Isbrandsten company of New York, the vessel's operator. The ship, escorted by a Dutch destroyer arrived at Tandjong Priok, Batavia harbor, last weekend after loading rubber, sugar and cinchona (quinine bark) at Cheribon.

Make Written Appeal

Grey and Ryan made what they termed a "written appeal through the press to the United States government for protection of this American vessel, her master and crew against the use of violence."

"The Netherlands East Indies director of economic affairs, J. E. Van Hoogstraten, arbitrarily refused to let Ryan present a protest against the treatment of the Behrman," the appeal said.

"The Behrman was standing two miles offshore at the port of Cheribon when, under threat that she would be sunk by gunfire if she failed to obey, she was forced by the Dutch destroyer Kortenaer and Dutch Marines to leave territorial waters, travel 160 miles on the high seas and re-enter territorial waters at Tandjong Priok harbor.

U. S. Lodges Protest

"From the moment the Behrman reached the high seas, the Kortenaer became a pirate ship unlawfully using the American vessel as a Dutch prison ship for the confinement of the Behrman's

Weather In Britain Foul; New Fuel Crisis

London, March 6—(AP)—A new fuel crisis threatened storm-battered Britain today.

Ice and mountainous snows knotted the nation's transportation system and slashed critically needed coal production. The Daily Herald, organ of the ruling labor party, forecast "further checks" on fuel-short industry unless coal stocks get through.

A two day blizzard that died out last night had blocked 120 highways, stopped all movement on forty branchlines of the Great Western railway line, and entirely isolated thirty-three South Wales mines, which went out of production. Attendance at other mines there and in the midlands was cut by 50 per cent.

Prime Minister Attlee called a meeting of his emergency "coal cabinet" for this afternoon.

UMW Fine Is Cut in Decision

Union Must Pay More if Order is Not Complied With in Five Days

Two Justices Dissent

Washington, March 6.—(AP)—The Supreme court upheld 7 to 2 today the contempt convictions of John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers for refusing to call off their soft coal strike last November.

In an extraordinary mid-week ruling that caught the nation by surprise, the high court in effect gave the Truman administration a smashing victory in its Titanic struggle with Lewis and his miners.

There was no immediate reaction from Lewis

The high tribunal ordered the $3,500,000 fine against the union cut to $700,000, but threatened to raise it back to the higher figure unless the miners show complete compliance with the lower court's no-strike order within five days.

The $10,000 fine against Lewis himself was affirmed without change.

Must Withdraw Notice,

The court's order means that Lewis must withdraw the contract termination notice sent Secretary of the Interior J. A. Krug last November. It was the government's contention that the contract runs throughout the period of government operation. This period must end by law on June 30.

When he sent the miners back to work pending a supreme court ruling, Lewis set April 1 as the end of the work period.

Ignored Court Order

The penalties grew out of Lewis' refusal to obey a court order intended to head off the 17-day soft coal strike last November.

The Supreme court's long-waited decision was announced as the court met for a regular argument session.

Ordinarily, the highest tribunal announces decisions only on Mondays. Today's action caught all parties by surprise.

Chief Justice Vinson delivered the opinion of the majority.

Justices Murphy and Rutledge wrote dissenting opinions.

Justice Frankfurter wrote a concurring opinion. Justices Black and Douglas each wrote an opinion in which they concurred in part and dissented in part.

Injunction Not Barred

The court majority ruled that neither the Norris-LaGuardia Act nor the War Labor Disputes Act barred the government from obtaining the injunction which resulted in the contempt proceedings.

It was this injunction that Lewis and the miners union were accused of flouting.

After the case had been appealed directly to the Supreme court, Lewis suddenly ordered his miners back to work, on Dec. 1. He said he wanted the Supreme court freed of any public hysteria in weighing the issues.

Chief Justice Vinson in his opinion said that the trial court properly found the defendants in the Lewis case guilty of both criminal and civil contempt.

Reduction Conditional

The majority specified that in cutting the union's fine to $700,000 it was doing so on this condition:

The union must pay an additional fine of $2,800,000 unless it shows within five days after the Supreme court issues its mandate that it has fully complied with the lower court's order.

"The defendant union", Chief Justice Vinson said, "can effect

Bonus Bond Sales Will Open May 1

Springfield, Ill., March 6—(AP)—The Illinois service recognition board plans to offer $300,000,000 in state veterans' bonus bonds for sale on May 1

Decision to issue on that date the first bloc of serial bonds under the $385,000,000 bonus program approved in a referendum last November was announced yesterday following a meeting here of the board, headed by Governor Green. The three member group is charged with the program's administration.

The initial block of bonds will be in $1,000 denominations. They will mature annually starting two years from the date of issuance over a 25 year period.

The law provides that the bonds be sold under sealed bids to the highest and best bidders for not more than par value and at an interest rate not to exceed two per cent.

Fellowship of Prayer--

FIDELITY NOT SUCCESS

He steadfastly set His face to go to Jerusalem. Luke 9:51. Read Luke 13:31-33.

Don Marquis said that writing poetry is like dropping rose petals down the Grand Canyon and waiting for the echo. Yet he continued to write poems. Being a poet, he could do nothing else. Some Christian objectives seem as hopeless of realization as filling the Grand Canyon with rose petals. Yet the Christian persists in striving for goals because love for God and man results in the compulsion to serve. Fidelity to his Christian nature, not success, is his primary concern.

Jesus did not turn back when death and seeming defeat stared Him in the face. He steadfastly set His face to go to the city where He knew He would be killed. He drove forward in spite of warnings. Having the nature of the Son of Man, He could do naught else. To the extent that we no longer ask, "shall I succeed?" but only "am I true?", our own hearts will tell us more of Him.

Let Us Pray: In thy solemn presence, O God, we consecrate ourselves anew to building thy Kingdom on earth. Help up to strive with renewed vigor for a warless world, a better distribution of wealth, world government, brotherhood barriers of race and color. Help us so to strive not because we expect immediate success, but because we can do no less and continue to think of ourselves as followers of Thy Son. Amen.

Indoor Circus Will Appear in Dixon March 7

Proceers will go to the P-T. A. organizations.

The show has all the features of a big outdoor circus. There will be shrieking calliopes, capering ponies, frolicking clowns, jugglers and a man on the flying trapeze.

Among the performers will be the Bedell Troupe of teeterboard acrobats, the DeWaldo Troupe of unicyclists, Samaroff's acrobatic dogs, the Coriell family of jugglers, clowns, and a member of the Coriell family who will slide down a tight wire while balanced on his head.

Indoor circuses have played in larger cities for many years. Included in the equipment for theirs, the Davies have a special floor pad that covers and protects the floors upon which is erected the circus ring. From the ceiling girders will hang trapeze rigging.

A Thought for Today

He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much: and he that is unjust in the least is unjust also in much.—Luke 16:10.

Thus I knew that pups are like dogs, and kids like goats; so I used to compare great things with small.—Vergil.

"Buyer's Market"

In a recent issue of Nation's Business, Virgil D. Reed writes vividly on the subject of "Retailers, Get on Your Toes!" Mr. Reed's thesis is simple but important—the buyer's market is rapidly returning, customers are becoming choosier, are thinking in terms of more and better goods and service for their money. Furthermore, he says, "Mass production is inescapably dependent on mass distribution and aggressive selling of more goods at lower prices. The job retailers do will determine largely both the degree of future prosperity we attain and its stability. Soon production will catch up with accumulated need for goods. When it does, the retailer's job will begin in earnest."

The progressive retailers of this country, chain and independent, are well aware of this trend. New innovations in displaying and marketing goods are being planned and tried. Stores are expanding their stocks of merchandise, to make sure that the maximum number of potential buyers will find what they want. Salespeople are being trained once again in traditional standards of courtesy and good service. Manufacturers' lines are being scanned critically, as buyers search for the best possible quality at the lowest possible price.

On the basis of the last available figures, something like 75 per cent of the retail business of this country is done by independent stores, 21 or 22 per cent by chains and the rest by minor forms of retailing. It is not expected that these proportions will show any particular change. But competition will get keener in all fields—and the merchant who wants his share of the business must get on his toes and stay there. The consumer is boss—and American retailing will spare no effort to see that his needs and desires are met.

Band of Brotherhood

Both design and circumstance seem to be forcing Canada away from England and bringing her closer to the United States. The Canadians attained independent citizenship. Then Canada and the United States decided to continue in peacetime their war-born joint defense agreement. But the crowning bond of brotherhood was attained just the other day.

The choir and organist of an Ottawa church were engaged to perform in a government - made film. Shortly afterward the government received a bill for $60. It was for the services of a "stand-by" union organist, and it was sent by James C. Petrillo.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Washington — General Marshall is flying to Moscow in a blur of private official lament about the economic breakup in Britain. When the president held his preliminary conference with the Republican and Democratic leaders, not a person present would talk afterward. The reporters suspected the group were too scared to reveal anything as they usually do.

Yet surprisingly enough, the British themselves have been the loudest of lamenters over their own condition. The public appeal of Bevin to turn the Greek situation over to us was plainly meant to be an alarmist gesture. His failing power and prestige in Turkey, the situation in the Dardanelles, which approach the Suez, Egypt and the Orient, made it rather plain to everyone here that the Bevin appeal was really much broader than merely the Greek situation. It was a plea for American assumption of leadership to save the collapsing British empire and the British position throughout Europe east of the Rhine. Officials susceptible to calamities immediately drew visions of the British collapse permitting Russia to envelop Europe and Asia.

The implications of this possibly overdrawn situation were not apparent to the public. Actually the British have only about 8,000 troops in Greece. Their cost is not considerable, and even a Socialist failure in Britain might finance it. But the Greeks are seeking a $250,000,000 loan and what the British really want from us is financial backing for the British political position in Greece. Simultaneously, Mr. Hoover has returned from Europe proclaiming the need of Germany for $475,000,000 for food.

* * *

Now our original $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain was supposed to pull her through all financial hazards until 1948. By the end of next year they figured their imports would be sufficient to sustain their economy. But prices have risen in the United States since the loan was made, and the British complain (I have not figured it out myself) that they have been able to obtain only half as much food, grain and materials here for their money. Certainly their socialism has not only failed to produce a larger volume of exports, but cannot even produce enough coal to sustain themselves.

The figures they offer are these: If they could get 500 million pounds from exports, 200 million from their investments, and 100 million from shipping profits, they would have a balance of 800 millions on the credit side. As a result of high prices here and production deficiencies they are 350 million pounds short.

This is the pivotal point of the matter. It is a financial crux, not one of diplomacy. This distinction is not generally understood, at least not in Washington. The British have made an Anglo-French alliance, upon which they count for French support, although the French government is too worried now itself to be of much help.

* * *

There is every prospect that we may come to the alliance method of bolstering our support. We may have a French-American alliance, especially if the Moscow conference runs the expected course, without sufficient results to guarantee our aims and security. There may be other alliances.

Yet fundamentally the British diplomatic policy is in accord with the policy of the United States, and there has been no breakdown in her desire to pursue such a policy with us. I have heard Bevin has called General Marshall on the telephone several times a day recently. Furthermore we are sending a good man in Lewis Douglas as ambassador to London. He was the personal choice, I understand, of Dean Acheson, the assistant state secretary. Marshall and Truman accepted the recommendation of this well known anti-new dealer without objection. So internal relations are certainly developing cordially and satisfactorily.

Thus this country is being faced again with a plea to bail Europe out. The proposition which the British are making primarily requires our money, not any extra diplomatic skill or backing, except such as would ensue from loans and advances (indeed the British have seemed to some authorities to be leading up to another advance for themselves). We face a dilemma of finance, not unlike the one after the last war. My information suggests the Truman administration will certainly meet each case as it arises, however, and not create a lump sum grab bag.

Such a condition is naturally building up strong inner sentiment here for a coalition government in Britain. Atlee could not wait until the war was over to get Churchill out. The current prime minister has never had an impressive following in this country. He has tried his socialism fully and cannot get enough production to sustain the economy (personally I believe it is impossible to get production out of socialism simply because it destroys all private initiative). While the Conservative party has no great youthful leaders who have much popular following either, a coalition would at least make the British crisis look like a crisis, and not merely another Socialist attempt to borrow more from capitalism or indirectly through Greece.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

As Pegler Sees It

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

(Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

William Green and other professionals of the union movement, in their appearances before congressional committees, have made the irrelevent and untrue statement that there is a hidden purpose by some unidentified force to destroy our unions by legislation ostensibly intended only to place them under wise restraints.

No such intention has been avowed or revealed anywhere in the hearings or in a decade and more of proceedings leading up to them. The only purposes that have been stated are legitimate. They are to dissipate the labor monopoly now operated by about 100 individuals who controy key unions and have the power to blackmail the entire American people: to put down racketeering by notorious rascals to whom Green himself has openly given aid and comfort many times; and to reduce to reasonable size the treasuries that unions may amass, and forbid the use of this enormous money-power to swing elections.

On this last point be it remembered that such use of money by soulless corporations has been wisely forbidden by law, but that in the last two years two eminent unioneers, Whitney, of the railroad Trainmen, and Tobin, of the Teamsters, announced their intentions to spend enormously to achieve results in public elections. If United States Steel or the Pennsylvania railroad had made similar announcements the executives would have been hauled before federal grand juries in no time. Dissenting stockholders could have gone into court to restrain them from spending their money for political objectives contrary to their own.

* * *

The individual member of these two and other great unions enjoys fewer rights and powers under law than the individual holder of a single share of stock in a large corporation. The stockholder can sell out and go his way. If the worker quits the union he can't work. The claim of the boss unioneers that "democracy" prevails in their councils is true, but that is merely another condemnation of democracy. By a process of years this system has placed autocratic powers in the hands of the high executive. If we unwind it back through the resolutions adopted along the line we find that in most cases this power is technically justified by the uninformed and careless votes of monetary majorities in odd meetings. As of now it mounts up to autocracy, with the rank and file denied even recourse to the public courts.

It is important, too, that Green, Whitney, Tobin and many other rulers of vast numbers of American workers all have held their jobs much longer than Franklin D Roosevelt would have been president of the United States even if he had lived to complete his fourth term. Having built their tight and mighty political machines within their unions, having adopted a system of nepotism, patronage and pork similar to that of our public politics, they maintain themselves in office until they get too old to care any more, or die of old age. Many of them control absolutely groups of workers scattered across the land which are numerically larger than the respective populations of many of our states. They have propaganda departments to glorify them in official journals supported by the members, who thus are required to pay for the opiates used to drug them.

The individual teamster, who may be an 18-year-old girl sorting bills of lading in a warehouse, has no more access to Dan Tobin or power to carry a legitimate, legal grievance to a conclusion in the courts than an individual, workaday citizen living in Jersey City has to challenge the power of Frank Hague. Long, professional experience has equipped the clever men in the key jobs to stall, divert and obstruct until the individual worker with the rare gumption to pursue his rights either is lost in a wilderness of technicalities, broke and unable to pay lawyers, or fired from the job and hounded out of the community.

* * *

If he still persists, however, he may find that by the process of delay he has permitted the statute of limitations to run against his grievance and thus discover the courtroom door barred to him, yet the courts will not entertain his complaint until he has exhausted all remedies within the union.

This is altogether a great wickedness of the American union movement and nobody on the union side will assert that this review is a false or misleading presentation. Nobody on that side will undertake to show that William Green or the executive council of the A. F. of L. ever has taken the initiative against any of the spectacular scoundrels who have been exposed by these essays over a ten-year period, or that Philip Murray, the president of the C. I. O., ever challenged such conditions when he was in a position to do so as an executive within the A. F. of L. maintain that, as stewards of the rights and interests of the workers, they all had a moral duty to fight these evils and that they were derelict in their failure to do so voluntarily and aggressively.

Now, it being admitted that these are familiar evils inherent in the American union movement, we may consider whether that movement deserves to live. I believe it should be maintained until, in the course of human progress, we evolve some natural successor. The union movement is not sacred, however, and only an ignoramus, oblivious of history, would say that it is the ultimate and permanent thing. Many studious union executives understand this to be so and speculate on the form that progress will bring in years to come, after they are gone.

If unionism, as it is today, is the best that Green and his colleagues have to offer, then the American people may well consider whether it should not be destroyed. These men oppose all proposals to improve or cure it as sly attempts to kill it. I say it should be preserved, but in a method and mood of law-abiding cooperation with the people of the country. I contend that a system which enables a few men to maintain themselves in these governing jobs for from 20 to 40 years, many of them cushioned with special privilege and royal if not dictatorial powers, is contrary to our political nature and bad for the unions themselves. To the argument that they become more valuable with experience I reply that if they were hired executives, removable for cause, that theory would be good. But they aren't hired. They are elected and re-elected and more often than not by a political process that the nation itself has now rejected after one alarming experience.

The most effective or promising proposal that I have heard so far is to repeal the immunities which permit unions to violate the Sherman Anti-Trust law. Other acts would be necessary, of course, to break up the internal political machines within the unions.

A Definition of Our Town

Somebody defined our town just the other day as "A place where the people talk about you behind your back, and come to wait on you when you're sick."

I've got to admit there's something to it. A lot of our folks are inclined to be pretty outspoken and quick to criticize . . . even about little things like a woman's hat, or a man's preference for a glass of beer, or the color of Cy Hartman's new barn.

But when anyone's in trouble, those differences and points of criticism are forgotten . . . and folks become neighborly and helpful, like they really are.

From where I sit, criticism never did much harm to anybody, so long as folks don't let it guide their actions . . . so long as they respect our individual preferences, whether they apply to hats or beer. That's the way it is in our town, anyway, and I hope that it's the same in yours.

THE STORY: Sherry and Mona rent a cottage together in one of Hollywood's bungalow courts. Mona is sleek and sophisticated. She works in an insurance office and is making a play for her married boss, George Brothers. Sherry keeps house, wants to write, worries about Mona's interest in Brothers. Two of the boys who live at the end of the court come in one evening to borrow an onion. They are Sandro, who is French—and Tony, who is Austrian.

* * *

IV

SHERRY pushed back her chair from the desk and stared at the paper before her. Whatever rhymed with "dust"? She had made a list of words that did along the margin of the paper. They began trust, rust, gust. She had to be careful because many words did not suit the spirit of the poem. It was to be a fantasy—the tragedy of a woman who had "lived."

"I live all alone in a castle of dreams." She crossed out "live" and put "dwell." From there on it went quite easily. She changed a word here and there and read it pleasedly. It sounded sad, too heartbroken to be hurt any more. That was just what she had wanted. Maybe people would read it and wonder at her having suffered so, at her age. Maybe the boys would think she had "lived."

Sherry had seen them a lot. She had met Kris too. He was older than Tony and Sandro and at first Sherry had been uncomfortable with him. He was Danish and blond with steely eyes and a long scar down one cheek that he had got from dueling. He had been introduced to her as Captain Kristopher Ludwig Van Rantmann. And he had clicked his heels and bowed stiffly like Tony and had kissed her hand. His manner was arrogant, and he had a way of speaking that was like giving orders.

Sherry had decided he was altogether detestable. "I'm not going to like you!" she thought. But she had.

TONY and Kris came to the door and Sherry called, "Come in."

They had formed a habit of coming to tea if they happened to be home.

Tony said, "Are you writing a letter?"

Sherry smiled a little sad, sweet smile.

She said, "No. Just a verse."

She sighed and put away her papers, but she left the poem on the desk.

"I'll put the kettle on."

Kris kissed her hand. Sherry had learned to give it with the back up now to be kissed instead of sideways to shake hands. It made her feel like a lady in a drawing room.

Tony stood looking down at the poem.

"Aren't you going to read it to us?" he wanted to know.

Kris said, "Of course she is!" Then to Sherry, "We're a magnificent audience."

Sherry looked as if she had no such intention but did not want to be rude. She smiled.

She said, "Of course, if you like."

Kris sat down and took Whiskers on his lap. He scratched her jowls and she purred. Sherry read the poem, her voice a little sad and far away. When she had finished, she shrugged a little and tossed the paper on the desk. Kris looked thoughtful.

"It's beautiful," he told her. "Do you write much?"

Sherry smiled.

"Oh, now and then when I feel like it. I'll put the kettle on."

* * *

DURING tea they talked about love. Sherry was a little mysterious, as though she knew a great deal about it. Tony seemed surprised that she did, but Kris looked amused and as though he liked Sherry very much. He was quiet as if he wanted to hear her talk. His attitude disturbed her. She changed the subject.

"Is Sandro working today?" she asked.

He was and what was more, he was a fool.

Tony said, "He thinks he's a great actor and he's going to get a chance to show it by doing extra work at five dollars a day!"

"Even if he does make the grade," Tony told them, "actors are just kicked around. They play their parts the way they're told. Everybody else in the business does their thinking for them. I'm going to direct."

Sherry was impressed. Kris was not.

He said, "The only money in the picture business is in the production end. If you're any good as a director I'll let you make a picture for me."

The telephone rang and Sherry answered it. It was Mona.

"I won't be home to dinner, angel," she told Sherry. "I'm going out with Mr. Brothers."

"But—but, Mona," Sherry began, "do you think you should?"

Mona laughed.

She said, "Think? I know I should!" Then sweetly, "Don't worry, darling. I'll be home early."

After she hung up Sherry turned from the telephone and attempted to make her voice sound as if the news was not important.

"Mona's not coming home to dinner."

Tony said, "Then eat with us! We're having spaghetti."

Sherry accepted.

After they were gone, she took Whiskers on her lap and sat very still. Now it was beginning, she told herself. The cocktails and the rides home had just been the preliminaries. She thought of all the things that could happen to Mona. Suppose Mr. Brothers' wife was having a detective follow him. Suppose he saw them together at dinner and told Mrs. Brothers and she got a divorce. Then Mona would be a corespondent with her picture in all the newspapers. Mona would be the kind of girl of which Sherry's mother had often spoken—the kind of girl at whom people pointed their finger.

"We well realize". Vinson went on, "the serious proportions of the fines here imposed on the defendant union.

"But a majority feels that the course taken by the union carried with it such serious threat to orderly constitutional government, and to the economic and social welfare of the nation, that a fine of substantial size is required in order to emphasize the gravity of the offense of which the union was found guilty.

Lewis Aggressive Leader

"The defendant Lewis, it is true was the aggressive leader in the studied and deliberate non-compliane with the order of the District court prior to imposition of the fines that "the representatives of the United Mine Workers determined that the so-called Krug-Lewis ageement was breached', and that it was the union's 'representatives' who 'notified the secretary of the interior that the contract was terminated as of November 20'. And certainly it was the members of the defendant union who executed the nationwide strike. Loyalty in responding to the orders of their leaders may, in some minds, minimize the gravity of the miners conduct; but we can not ignore the effect of their action upon the rights of other citizens, or the effect of their action upon our system of government".

"Rights of Free Men"

The chief justice asserted that "the gains, social and economic, which the miners and other citizens have realized in the past are ultimately due to the fact they enjoy the rights of free men under our system of government".

When Hungary was experiencing a financial crisis last year Moscow rejected three proposals submitted by the United States that Russia, this country and Great Britain join in helping. Great Britain is involved as one of the big three at the Yalta conference and as a member of the control council at Budapest.

The Russian espionage charge against Kovacs was called "preposterous" by a British legation attache and other officials.

Russian troops in Hungary, who numbered possibly 1,000,000 at the war's end, have been reduced to less than 100,000, according to reports credited by officials as accurate.

Under terms of the Hungarian peace treaty now being considered by the senate foreign relations committee all are to be withdrawn 90 days from the treaty's effective date, except for those necessary to safeguard lines of communications with Austria.

The Hungarian regime was chosen Nov. 4, 1945, in balloting which returned a 57 per cent majority for the Smallholders party. The party has 245 seats in parliament, the communists 70.

It remained a monument in that sense only three years, however, when Ickes issued his order.

"A small act of a very small man," Anderson asserted to the committee, adding that his bill would "right a great wrong."

Several Democrats on the public lands committee opposed Anderson's resolution on the grounds that the name Boulder dam has become fixed through 14 years of usage. They said too that to argue the issue on the floor might reopen "old wounds."

"If this thing splits along party lines," said Rep. Carroll (D-Colo), I don't think it will be good for the dam or good for Hoover."

There was no record vote in the committee.

GRACE CHURCH

Rev. H. I. Newell, pastor of the First Evangelical United Brethren church of Freeport, spoke at Grace church of Dixon Wednesday evening on the subject of "Revival in the Church of God," this being the first of series of messages which will be given nightly through Sunday, March 16th. Saturdays excepted. His subject Thursday evening will be "God's Greatest Work." On Friday he will speak on "God's Dynamic." The Grace church choir, under the direction of Mrs. R. Herbert and Mrs. R. F. Krahler, oragnist, sings each evening.

Mr. Newell's Wednesday message was based on the old story from the book of Nehemiah, about the walls of Jerusalem which were broken down and their protection lost. A parallel was drawn with present conditions in which individuals and groups have lost their security and influence because of broken walls of faith, prayer and spiritual devotion. Because men and women have forsaken God they have degenerated morally and spiritually and have lost their sense of values and direction. This Lenten call was for the church and its members to revitalize their Christian faith and influence and help to bring a lost world back to the loving heart of God.

The 1946 production of commercial apples totaled approximately 121.5 million bushels. This was about 79 per cent more than the short crop of 1944.

of 1930 or of 1896 are sadly out of date. Isolation, after two world wars, is a confession of mental and moral bankruptcy."

Truman landed here today after a four and a half hour flight from Mexico City. The presidential plane, the "Sacred Cow," arrived at Municipal airport at Waco at 9:57 a. m. (CST). It came to a smooth stop before a group of about 150 dignitaries waiting to greet the president.

Day Is Cold, Rainy

Stepping out of the plane in cold, rainy weather, he was on U. S. soil again for the first time since Monday morning.

He was accompanied to Waco by officials who were with him during his three-day goodwill visit to Mexico.

They included Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy, his chief of staff; presidential secretaries Matthew J. Connelly and Charles Ross; Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham, presidential physician, and his military and naval aides.

President Miguel Aleman drove to the Mexico City airport to see Truman off at 4:30 a. m. (CST).

GAME FACTS

EVENT—Second semi-final game of regional.
PLACE—Sterling coliseum.
TIME—8:45 o'clock tonight.
COACHES—Lee Davison (Dixon), Curt Brandau (Sterling).
OFFICIALS—W. W. Fulkerson and Bill Cregan, both of Freeport.

Dixon's Dukes and Sterling's Golden Warriors meet a third time at 8:45 o'clock tonight in the second semi-final game of the coliseum regional.

Dixon, with its second five playing nearly half the game, defeated Prophetstown, 51-40, last night as Sterling nabbed its initial victory, 47-38, over a scrappy Lee Center quint, Franklin Grove district champs.

Rock Falls, undefeated 72-21 conqueror of Amboy Tuesday, plays Sterling Community, 60-34 winner over Milledgeville, in tonight's opening battle. The winners clash at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow evening with a sectional berth on the line.

Bill Reigle and Jack Schultz led the Purple to a comparatively easy win over the Prophets. Reigle hit eight buckets and one gifter for 17 points while Schultz collected eight straight free throws and added two buckets.

All Squadmen Play

Loren Munson, who developed a 101 degree temperature yesterday, didn't start but saw limited action. Each of the ten players broke into the lineup with only Johnny Eckhart and Carroll Schumacher failing to score.

The Dukes opened a 7-0 lead in a flurry on buckets by Schultz, Reigle and Cannon and a charity toss by Reigle. Larry Thicksten whipped in Prophetstown's first bucket but Dixon zoomed the count to 17-2 before Don Scott hit from the floor. Cannon's free throw closed the period with Dixon leading, 18-6.

Prophetstown outscored the locals, 12-11, in the second stanza with a balanced hoop attack. However, at half time, Dixon, after employing subs most of the quarter, led 29-18.

Prophets Score Late

Coach Lee Davison's club closed out with 11 point performances in each of the remainnig sessions. Prophetstown garnered 17 scores during the fourth quarter as Dixon's second string took over the court.

Larry Thicksten and bespectacled Harry Ackeberg shared point honors for Coach L. W. Kerker's Prophets, each totalling nine markers.

Dixon holds two victories over the Blue and Gold, tonight's foe, by 61-32 and 51-45 margins. Sterling's lineup, given above, is subject to change since Coach Curt Brandau has rarely allowed his combinations to stand pat.

Sterling Beats L. Center

Blue & Gold Score Initial Cage Victory

Sterling, March 6—(Special)—Sterling's Golden Warriors, who didn't win a game during their regular season, broke the ice last night with a 47-38 regional victory over Coach Glenn Davenport's Lee Center five.

Ray "Red" Kenaga collected 12 points for Sterling as Bob Delhotal flipped 17 for Lee Center.

Lee Center moved into an 8-7 lead at the close of the first canto but Sterling forged a 20-16 advantage as the half ended.

The losers tied the battle at 20-all shortly after the third period opened. Sterling went ahead again, 24-20 and then 26-23 as the fourth period got underway.

Davenport's quint reduced the count at one point to 34-31 during the final eight minutes. However, Sterling boosted it to 38-32 and trooped home on the long side.

Byron Eliminates Ashton

Bobtales

By BOB FALLSTROM

Duke Coach Lee Davison's worst moment last night came when Forward Joel Lehman limped about after a collision with one of the Prophets. Joel's knee was slightly injured and he was removed reentering later. The slight wound won't hamper him this evening . . . Lester Delhotal, one of four brothers on Lee Center's outfit, goes by the quaint nickname of "Frog" . . . Lee Center appeared spick and span in newly cleaned red satin suits with white numerals. Prophetstown dressed in solid white with orange numbers . . . Plenty of vacant seats dotted the balcony, exploding the before-game "sellout" publicity. All of tonight's seats are gone . . . Many fans from Dixon were in attendance and Lee Center also boasted a number of rooters . . . Bill Reigle's one-hand toss was clicking and the senior forward was outstanding along the boards, batting in at least three rebounds . . . Several members of the high-riding Rock Falls crew watched the games, seeking a "line" on Dixon primarily . . . The coliseum's scoreboard is again in operation after a short breakdown . . . Jack Schultz couldn't miss on the charity line. He hit one free throw in the first period, three in the second and four in the third stanza . . . Sterling was unimpressive against short but hustling Lee Center, failing to follow up a tremendous height advantage.

DIAMOND NEWS—Harold Burnette has been selected to manage Paw Paw's baseball team, to be sponsored by the Lion's club this summer. The club's diamond committee reports some equipment has been purchased and uniforms promised.

COLLEGE NOTE—Ardell Bugg, former Dixon high school football and basketball star, is majoring in pre-dentistry courses at St. Augustine's college, Raleigh, N. C., and hopes to enter dental school by 1948.

He's still a cager and says in a letter to a Dixon friend: "We've had a dismal season but I've done O. K., playing in every game and leading the team in scoring."

Ardell's official residence has been Brooklyn, N. Y., for over a year.

SUNDAY DOUBLE BILL—Knacks and B & A will participate in a double bill at the Sterling coliseum Sunday afternoon.

The Sterling Moose team that played here Feb. 27 on the Hawaiian All-Stars card opposes B & A at 2 p. m. with Knacks tackling Neal Wick's All-Stars at 3 p. m. Wick's group includes such one-time Sterling high school court aces as Bill Robinson, Francis Melchi, Jerry Linton and Stan Ridge.

ADD NAME FIGHT—As a follow-up to our Blackhawk conference adenda asked by Lauren Foley of Harmon, here's the text of an AP story wired here late yesterday.

"Prof. Sam. Shurky of the University of Missouri, secretary of Big Six faculty representatives, today said members had decided to drop the newly adopted Midwest title and retain the Big Six label until the spring session of faculty representatives at Lincoln, Neb., May 23-24.

"Adoption of the Midwest conference title brought a protest from the Midwest Collegiate Athletic conference which is composed of nine colleges in Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota and has carried its present label since 1921."

JOHNNY MAUER NEW CAGE MENTOR AT WEST POINT

West Point, N. Y., March 6—(AP)—Johnny Mauer, whose won-lost average for eight years as Tennessee basketball coach was .750, is Army's new cage mentor, succeeding Stuart K. Holcomb, who next week will assume his new job as head football coach at Purdue.

Mauer's appointment was announced yesterday by Col. Lawrence (Biff) Jones, graduate manager of athletics at the military academy.

FIVE PLAYERS TIE GAME BUT ALL LEAVE VIA FOULS

Whittemore, Ia., March 6—(AP)—When a member of the Algona Independents fouled out in the closing seconds of a basketball game with Whittemore this week it was Algona's toughest break.

The player who fouled out had just dropped in the basket which deadlocked the contest at 57-57.

But he was Algona's fifth player to leave the game on fouls and Algona had brought only five men here for the contest.

The oppositionless overtime was a breeze for Whittemore.

Spare Room Rent May be Started or Terminated at Will

Rent regulations place no burdensome restrictions on persons who could help break the shelter shortage by renting a room or two in their homes, it was pointed out today by Arthur A. Thorsell, area rent director.

Federal eviction controls do not apply where a landlord rents a sleeping room to not more than two occupants, he said.

"This fact should be a clear answer to those who fear that once they took in roomers they could not, under rent regulations, terminate the rentals," declared the rent official.

"It is true in the case of house, apartment or rooming house rentals that the rent regulations safeguard tenants against some sudden or unreasonable evictions. But when a citizen rents sleeping rooms to only one or two persons he is not considered to have a rooming house and the rent office has nothing to say in connection with any termination of rentals."

All that rent regulations require, he added, is that the rental be registered with the rent office and that the rent be comparable to generally prevailing rentals for similar rooms. If it is not comparable the rent office will notify the landlord after his registration, and adjust to the prevailing rate.

"Maximum use of available rental property, as an objective of the community, has full support in the rent office policies that urge quick re-occupancy of home or apartments when, for any reason, a tenancy is legally terminated, and in the regulation that exempts spare room renting from eviction control, Thorsell emphasized.

Green Puts Becker in State Fair Post

Springfield, Ill., March 6—(AP)—Governor Green last night announced the appointment of Conrad F. Becker, former Republican state treasurer, to the newly created post of business administrator of the Illinois state fair.

Green said Becker's appointment followed a recommendation of the fair's board of advisors that functions currently exercised by the exposition's general manager be divided between two officials. The board is headed by Senator Simon E. Lantz (R-Congerville).

William V. (Jake) Ward of Bloomington, who has held the general manager post for several years, will continue to direct advertising, attractions and special features as head of the fair's promotion division, the governor said.

Becker, whose salary was not announced, ended a two year term in the elective office of state treasurer last January. Under the state constitution he was ineligible to succeed himself in that position.

The 1947 state fair will be held at Springfield Aug. 8-17.

Greece May Be Key to Europe's Future Politically

Stems Red Sweep Over Southern and Western Europeans

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

One of the most far-reaching and delicate international issues of the post-war period has been raised by Britain's unprecedented proposal that a big part of her obligations in Greece be assumed by the United States, and the U. S. State department's reply which is reported to be "favorable in principle"—contingent on congressional approval and British agreement to maintain troops there.

That John Bull should find himself unable to meet his obligations to his little Balkan protege is easily understandable. He is in the midst of a life-and-death economic crisis which renders him incapable of providing the money necessary—said to be some $250,000,000 for the current year. What some folk may not find quite so clear is why Britain (and the U.S.A.) should feel it necessary to maintain Greece in this relationship.

Greece is Keystone

The answer is that Greece is the keystone of Britain's all-important zone of influence in the eastern Mediterranean. As this column frequently has emphasized, Greece is England's last toe-hold on the Balkan peninsula. Should the British be compelled to withdraw, there's small doubt that Greece, already hard pressed by communistic neighbors, would be swallowed by the Red tide. Athens would take orders from Moscow.

The result of such a development might easily render Turkey—now a friend of the western allies—vulnerable to Soviet pressure so that Russia would at long last gain her heart's desire of controlling the Dardanelles strait—stragetically one of the most important water thoroughfares in the world. And there you have the foundations for the collapse of England's control in the Middle East and her lifeline to the Far East.

Battle Red Sweep

But that's not the whole story. Were Britain knocked out in the Eastern Mediterranean, the dyke which has been acting as a deterrent to the sweep of the Red tide across western Europe would have been breached. Italy might be the next country to come within the Soviet zone, providing a mighty lever for communization right through the English channel.

But, asks someone, why should we of the western hemisphere worry about what happens to Britain's sphere of influence in Europe, or what the political developments are? Well, two world wars have convinced military experts that America's front-line defense lie in Europe, and that being the case we most certainly are vitally interested in the politico-military set-up there.

Pose Final Choice

The present position poses two problems for America and Britain in particular and for the western democracies in general:

(1). Is it wise fro mthe standpoint of world peace for any one great power to cantrol all of continental Europe? (2). Do the western democracies intend to combat the encroachment of communism on their territories or do they just intend to let nature take its course?

As for the first question, it would take a Hitlerian mentality to see any good in European domination by one nation. Should such a situation be created, it would be a seven league stride toward world control by the nation concerned.

The answer to the second query has been given many times in the capitals of the democracies. Totlitarian communism and western democracy are so diametrically opposed that the two cannot exist in the same country. One of them must die. So the western democracies have turned thumbs down on communism as a doctrine for their own countries. Its acceptance would mean their downfall.

Late Delivery

San Francisco — (AP) — Thirty-nine tenants of an apartment house received typewritten notices under their doors saying the rent was going up 10 to 15 per cent.

Within a few minutes the switchboard operator at the Office of Temporary Controls had a busy time. OTC agreed with each caller—rents were still frozen.

The surprised owner investigated and came up with the answer. Several months ago when legal rent boosts seemed likely, the management had preparedness notes written.

Yesterday the janitor found and delivered them.

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

"I'M A CATTLE BUYER AT THE STOCK YARDS"

I work for packing firms selecting beef on the hoof in this greatest live animal market in the world. Every day, in my job, I see livestock from the western ranges and farm products from the Mississippi valley pour in here by rail and by road. That's what makes Northern Illinois the biggest center for food processing in the country. I like this job and it's to my advantage to work at the very hub of the food industry. My wife and kids enjoy living in Northern Illinois and get a lot out of its fine educational and recreational features.

This cattle buyer knows what he is talking about. He is one of a hundred thousand people employed in the food industry in Northern Illinois—where a billion dollars worth of food products are processed every year—where more fresh beef, mutton, lamb, pork, sausage and lard is produced than anywhere else in the world.

And because the Middle West is the nation's granary, Northern Illinois is also a huge grain distributing center. The Chicago Board of Trade handles 86 per cent of the entire nation's trading in wheat, corn, oats, rye, barley, and soy bean futures—the largest market of its kind in the world. With an ideal balance among industries, trades and agriculture, this area is indeed the heart of the world's richest inland empire.

For the long range future, this evenly balanced economic area provides many outstanding advantages to business and industry. The theme of this advertisement is similar to one of a series emphasizing the outstanding advantages of this area, which we are publishing in national magazines and newspapers throughout the country. As a resident of Northern Illinois, these are facts you, too, should know.

Industries locating in this area have these outstanding advantages: Railroad Center of the United States • World Airport • Inland Waterways • Geographical Center of U. S. Population • Great Financial Center • The "Great Central Market" • Food Producing and Processing Center • Leader in Iron and Steel Manufacturing • Good Labor Relations Record • 2,500,000 Kilowatts of Power Tremendous Coal Reserves • Good Government • Good Living • Good Services for Tax Dollars. Send for free booklets containing useful information on these advantages.

176 industries selected Chicago and Northern Illinois for new plants during 1946.

Now that Jon has left Universal-International for free-lancing, he hopes to line up co-starring roles with his songstress-wife. Jon is set for "Prince of Thieves" at Columbia and is agenting for Frances to appear in the same movie. The couple has been married nine years, no small achievement in these parts.

Reports from Santa Barbara indicate "Arch of Triumph" was well received in its sneak preview though that town is traditionally tough on movies. Only five or 10 minutes will be snipped from its two hours, 45 minutes, and it will be ready for April release

Enlisted Man's Pay Tax-Free; Doesn't Have to Report It

Here's Eighth of Series of Articles Prepared for Telegraph Readers

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington—(AP)—The pay of enlisted men in the armed services is tax-free. Don't report it.

It's tax-free dating back to Jan. 1, 1941. It will remain so until the war officially has been declared over.

If you've paid any tax on enlisted pay since 1941, ask the internal revenue collector for a refund. Do so on form 843.

Any enlisted man who received $500 or more civilian income in those years going back to 1941 must file a return on it, just as any civilian would have to do.

Officers Must Pay

There's a difference with commissioned officers:

The first $1,500 of their service pay is tax-free dating back to Jan. 1, 1943 and doesn't have to be reported.

With that first $1,500 tax-free, they don't have to report any additional service pay unless it is $500 or more.

So commissioned officers don't have to file a return on their service pay unless it was more than $1,999.99. For example:

An officer received $1,900 service pay and $100 civilian income from dividends on stocks:

He forgets the first $1,500 of service pay but must report the next $400, plus the $100 in dividents, since the total income over $1,500 was $500.

Other Exemptions

Here is tax-exempt government pay—which doesn't have to be reported—to servicemen, veterans and their families.

Federal mustering out pay: state bonuses to veterans: all benefits under the GI Bill of Rights, such as for education and subsistence; terminal pay; government contributions to family allowances and to dependents; disability pay; disability retirement pay for service-connected disability; allowances for uniforms, subsistence, traveling, quarters; pensions to veterans or their families for war services.

Check further—if you must file a return—on the various items a serviceman can deduct or need not report.

Here's a point for a serviceman's wife to remember:

If her husband, because his service pay is all exempt, is not filing a return but she is, because she has civilian income of $500 or more she can claim him as an exemption.

List Other Points

Here's another point:

Suppose you, a parent, support a daughter whose husband is in service and who sends her some of his service pay.

Can you, in making your return, claim her as a dependent? Yes, so long as she did not have $500 or more civilian income of her own.

Here are some points for veterans and servicemen who have to file a return:

If you've been regularly stationed in the United States and are here March 15—the date for civilian filing—you must file.

If you've been overseas, or on sea duty, you can file a return 5½ months after the month of your return. But you can get the full payment delayed this way:

By applying in writing to the collector to whom the tax is due. Usually the law permits payment, without interest, in 12 quarterly installments over a three-year period. Application must be made within six months of discharge.

A question like this comes up:

I'm a veteran. I was an enlisted man. I was discharged in June, 1946. Do I have to file a retur?

You file no return on the service pay for those first six months of 1946. Do I have to file a return since—but if between June, 1946, and Dec. 31, 1946, you had as much as $500 civilian income, you must file a return.

Sweet Moos

South Bend, Ind. —(AP)—When Mrs. Emmanuel Florida's cow was stricken with a dietary ailment and veterinarian prescribed sugar— several pounds—Mrs. Florida found her rationed supply was not enough.

She applied for additional sugar at the OPA office but was told the application would have to be sent to the Cleveland OPA regional office for processing.

But the cow was too sick to wait for OPA procedure and Mrs. Florida's neighbors responded with sufficient supplies. Bossy is recovering.

Operation Delouse

A masked British soldier dusts with DDT the personal belongings, clothing, and hair of one of 800 illegal Jewish immigrants to Palestine. The delousing took place when the refugees were transferred from their own motor vessel to a British ship that took them to a transit camp on Cyprus.

Woman's Club to Entertain Tonight

(Telegraph Special Service)

Mass Meetings Plan Protest Over Alaska

Anchorage, Alaska, March 6 — (AP) — Numerous Alaska labor and civic groups will join in territory-wide "stop work" mass meetings from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. today to protest the territorial legislature's "inactivity". President Felton H. Griffin of the territorial federation of labor reported.

"All work will stop for meetings in which the legislature will be told that it has a job to do, before quitting March 27," Griffin said.

Gratitude

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—Don Robertson, Chicago salesman, told police on his arrival at headquarters with an overtime parking ticket that he was prepared to pay up to $15 fine and take the usual tongue-lashing "I get up north" in Chicago.

Police politely told him to put away his billfold. Because he had responded so promptly they told him he would have to pay only five cents—the amount he had forgotten to put in the parking meter.

Robertson was so surprised he paid the nickel and donated $10 to the policemen's pension fund.

Navy Will Aid Illinois Vets Qualify for Bonus

Washington, March 6—(AP)—The Navy department says it will forward as quickly as possible any information needed by war veterans to qualify for state bonuses but that it has not yet planned to open a liaison office for that purpose in Illinois.

A spokesman for the department said, however, that it has under "active consideration" the matter of serving Illinois veterans for whom the state has approved a war service bonus.

"It might involve quite a number of personnel if other states do as Illinois has done," the spokesman said. "It presents a budgetary problem which is under active study. We have not established a liaison office in Illinois and it is not now planned to do so, but I would not say it might not be done in the future."

Rep. Evan Howell (R-Ill) had conferred with Navy officials about opening an office in Illinois to help the veterans with information necessary to obtain the bonus. The bonus applications require information from veterans as to length of overseas service, which is not shown on naval discharge papers.
